Emotion Self Portraits

How do you show a mad, sad or glad face? The second grade studied a wide range of portraits for clues about how to show expressions and emotions in drawing faces. Each student then drew 3–4 emotions using mirrors to help think through all the features. After selecting one drawing to reproduce, students were given styrofoam and etched their drawing using pencils. These styrofoam plates were rolled with ink and printed multiple times with different colors of ink and paper.
